Copyright Registration

Copyright is a legal concept, enacted by most governments, giving the creator of an original work exclusive rights to it, usually for a limited time. Generally, it is "the right to copy", but also gives the copyright holder the right to be credited for the work, to determine who may adapt the work to other forms, who may perform the work, who may financially benefit from it, and other related rights. It is an intellectual property form (like the patent, the trademark, and the trade secret) applicable to any expressible form of an idea or information that is substantive and discrete.

Types of Copyright

- Artistic Work (Manufacturing and Service Industry logos / labels / symbols / packaging)
- Literary Work (Books, magazines, concepts, business plans/ideas, scripts)
- Software Content (Software languages, contents, programming files)
- Web Contents (Website pages, website content)
- Dramatic and Musical Work
- Cinematographic Films
- Photographs and paintings.

Importance and Advantages of Copyright

Copyright is a major part of Intellectual property where one can claim exclusive rights over the created identity which may be in any above mentioned form.

Several exclusive rights typically attach to the holder of a copyright:

- to produce copies or reproductions of the work and to sell those copies (including, typically, electronic copies/online)
- to import or export the work
- to create derivative works (works that adapt the original work)
- to perform or display the work publicly
- to sell or assign these rights to others
- to advertise or display by radio/video/online

Copyright Registration acts as a strong legal tool to avoid the infringement and fraudulent use of the Copyrighted work.
